Subject: TREEO Program

Data Request No. 55

- A. Who will be the auditor in the TREEO program?
- B. How will this be coordinated with the Residential Audit and HPwES programs?
- C. Will auditors in these other programs be required to transfer ownership of a project to the TREEO auditors if they meet the required income level?
- D. How will the measures recommended by the TREEO auditor be screened for cost-effectiveness? Will there be a cap on the incentive per customer?

Response

- A. IPL intends to utilize A-TEC Energy, the third party contractor currently administering audits for the Home Energy Audit program, as the TREEO auditor.
- B. Unlike the Home Energy Audit and HPwES program, the entry point for TREEO is the Community Action Program Agency. Individuals identified by the agency as eligible for the program will be transferred to IPL and scheduled accordingly.
- C. Auditors involved in the Home Energy Audit and HPwES will receive information on the TREEO program and details on how to refer customers if the customer indicates they meet the required income level for TREEO.
- D. Measures included in the TREEO program must meet the same qualifications as the measures that are covered by the residential prescriptive rebates program. Therefore separate cost effectiveness screening is not necessary. The maximum incentive per customer amount is determined by the customer incentive. The customer incentive is equal to 90% of installed cost and will extend to all equipment recommended by the auditor. There is no dollar cap on the incentive per participant.
